Constructor Bowles, of the Norfolk navy-yard, and Hon. Conabsolutely structor Bowles says it needed for the purpose of constructing a wet dock. The bill has already passed Senate and awaits action now of the House committee, of which Representative Lawson is a member.

ANTI-OPTION BILL. Senator Daniel presented in the Sen-ate to-day a variety of petitions. Among the most important was one from the Richmond Chamber of Commerce, opposing the passage of the Hatch-Washburn anti-option law. That measure was taken up by the Senate to-day, and it will hold the attenwould work great injury to the cotton industry of the South. Senator Daniel said to-day that he was emphatically opposed to the anti-option bill, and if a vote is reached on the measurs he will be so recorded.

It is understood that Senator Hunton favors the bill, or at least is now strongly inclined to vote for it on the ground that something must be done to break up the gambling in agricultural products.

ALSO OPPOSED. Colonel O'Ferrall presented in the House to-day a petition from the Norfolk and Portsmouth Chamber of Commerce also protesting against the same biil. He says that he voted for the liatch anti-option measure in the House last session, but with some misgivings, for the reason that he doubted whether the proposed remedy would go to the root of the evil He would support any bill which could wipe out the "bucket-shops," but he is fearful that the pending proposition may seriously interfere with legitimate trading in the substantial commercial exchanges, where actual articles of many kinds necessarily have to be contracted for in advance of delivery, this being true in wheat, flour, cotton, and corn, that are really handled in the transactions but have to be purchased ahead of delivery.

Other Virginia members feel in exactly the same way, and, therefore, when the bill gets back to the House there may be changes in the votes as cast last ses-

Among other petitions presented by Senstor Daniel to-day were: One from the Seventh-Day Adventists of Alexandria county opposing any union between Church and State; another from a large number of the leading citizens of Fluvanna county, asking for the repeal of the free leaf-tobacco section of the present tobacco law.

Representative Williams, of North Carolina, who is a member of the House Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, was asked to-day what chance there was for the bill proposing the erection of a government building at Winston-Salem. He said he had had a talk with Chairman Bankhead, but that gentleman, in view of the depleted condition of the Treasury,

At 2 P. M. the anti-option bill was taken up and Mr. George proceeded to address the Senate in support of it. He found himself, representing a Hamilton Messrs, James G. Berret, Hebry L. Biscoe, Alexander J. Briton, Charles S. Bradley, M. W. Beveridge, H., O. Claughton, Calderon Carlisle, George T. The cotton-growers were every year becoming poorer and poorer and were becoming the victims of a rapacious policy which had taken their earnings and added the amount to the over-grown wealth of men who used their power for that purpose. There were, he said, but five great cotton markets in measure was taken up by the Senate to day, and it will hold the attention of the body for some time to come, but the New York Cotton Exthe Richmond Chamber of Commerce change, which exercised such an influence on prices, had fewer actual dealings in cotton than seven or would work great injury to the cotton. eight other sesports in the United States. Mr. George cited the regulations of the New York Cotton Exchange to show that quotations were not fixed according to the actual trading in the market, but that the price of "middling" being ascertained the relative prices of all other grades, thirty in number, were fixed by a sliding scale established by a revision committee, which lished by a revision committee, which mittee. Mr. Barnum, who was then chairmet only once a month; that quotations for "spot" sales were made where no sales were made, and so also as to sales for future delivery; in other words, that prices were fixed in the New York Cotton Exchange without reference to transactions. And New York dominated and controlled every cotton market, not only in the United States, but sometimes in the world.

NO PLANTERS IN THE EXCHANGES As to the New Orleans and New York cotton exchanges their members were composed of factors, bankers, brokers, and steamboat-owners, but not of actual planters except in cases where they carried on other business, residing in New Orleans, New York, Galveston, and Memphis, and owning cotton plantations, some of them as many as thirty.
Without finishing his argument, Mr.

George yielded for a motion for an executive session, and soon afterwards, at 3:30 P. M., the Senate adjourned until House of Representatives. The attendance in the House this morning was a rather small one, the inclemency of the weather deterring many members from being present. Mr. Catchings (Democrat), of Missis-sippi, from the Committee on Rules, reported back favorably the resolution offered by Mr. Wilson (Democrat), of West Virginia, directing the Committee on Ways and Means to inquire into and report upon the present condition of the Treasury and the future probable revenues under existing law. Yours very truly, WILLIAM F. HABRITY.

HOW THE NEWS WAS RECEIVED.

(By telegraph to the Dispatch.) Washington, December 13 .- The oponents of the bill granting the Norio'k and Western railroad the right to enter this city are seriously menacing the bill. There is imminent probability that the influence of the rival railroads opposing this important legislation will secure action to-morrow, which will be fatal to the bill for the present session. It is learned that a considerable portion of the House District Committee, possibly a majority, have petitioned Chairman Hemphill to withdraw the bill from its place on the House calendar and recommit it to the commit-tee, where, of course, it will find a grave. Chairman Hemphill was asked to take this action out of hand, but he decided not to do so until he had laid the matter before the full committee, A meeting of the committee will be held (Democrat), of California, and Mr. Hitt (Republican), of Illinois, the bill morrow, and, of course, if a majority of the members ask to have the bill recommitted Mr. Hemphill will have to put the request to the House.
